Debbie works out with pulley to strengthen arm muscles.

To see her on the street, she would be just another lovely young high schooler, perhaps a cheerleader and an all-around student.

Fulfilling part of this appearance, Debbie Meyer is an all-around student. She maintains A and B grades. But the cheers she inspires are for her when she is in her element: competition in the swimming pool.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Meyer of Sacramento, Calif., introduced her to the swimming pool at age eight. Almost instantly she learned the fundamentals of swimming. In the same year, during an area swim meet against bigger and older competition, she placed high in the standings.

This past year, the 5-foot, 7-inch, 111-pound blonde has tumbled world marks for women in the 400, 800 and 1500 meter freestyle events and is a most likely candidate for the U.S. Women's Swimming Team to the 1968 Olympics.

Debbie is under the tutelage of Sherman Chavoor, coach of the women's Olympic team. To fulfill his expectations, she maintains a hectic training schedule, spending one hour each morning, one each afternoon and two each evening in the water, covering some seven or eight miles during that time. To this, she adds workouts on various exercising instruments to build up needed muscles for competition.

Her social life, between practice sessions, is a normal sophomore high school girl's pleasures: football games, movies and a dance now and then. While her homework is done mostly at school, her parents, who continue to encourage her swimming, also make sure she fulfills the duties about the household.

When those jobs are done, be they preparing dinner or sweeping up, she turns to her other interests: sewing clothes or playing guitar.

She and coach Chavoor know her best swimming will be done in the next four years. To this she applies herself fully, both for the pleasure of competition and the fascination of seeing new areas and meeting new people wherever meets are held.

Eventually she will enroll in college and graduate with a degree in physical education, a field in which she has already shown her own personal talents.

Beneath her awards she works on a dress.

Mother and daughter get together to prepare dinner.

Younger brother Karl reaches in to help her work out on the guitar.

With Arden Hills Swim Club teammate, Sue Peterson, she works out in the pool.

Youth Beat

When a "Look" Becomes the Reality: The no-bra look we predicted a few columns back has taken over like you wouldn't believe. It has been noted in the fashion field for several years that the string-bean skinnies of the fashion lights up world went bra less and could care less. They just didn't need them. Twiggy, too, wears no bra or girdle. As we recently said, the foundation folks are starting to steam. Bra sales will reflect what people don't wear as well as what they wear. Although foundation designers have eyed the future all along and saw the need for lightweight bras and girdles and pretty much filled the need, they didn't know what Ruth Greenreich had wrought in a couple of years ago with his see-through bra. That was considered oh so wild, but now? A handful of very famous designers design clothes to be worn sans any pseudo support. Question of the day? Will teens pick up the trend or will they put it down? It's just anti-establishment enough to appeal to some. Also easy, also cheap. Less on the underwear, more on the outerwear may appeal to teen budgets.

Where the Beautiful People Go: In Hollywood, teen and young adult notables sing, sing and sing at a number of intimate bistros. You'll see them every night at The Daisies and The Factory. Famous females like Nancy Sinatra, Mia Farrow, Jill St. John show up thereabouts quite often.

Where the Sounds Sound Off: The urge for ownership hits rock groups hard. An amazing number buy and try fabulous mountains in the Hollywood Hills. Beverly Hills, Bel Air and part of San Fernando Valley. Mama Michele and Papa John before taking off for the Greek Isles, bought and decorated with electric taste the former home of Jeanette MacDonald. Sandra Dee owns a remarkable pad. Nancy Sinatra sports a lush Colwater Canyon retreat. Lou Adler, former owner of Mamas and Papas and Dunhill Records, has a fantastic Bel Air home, also once star owned. Elvis always rented a monstrous manse in the hills when out here. A few, such as Suzanne Pleshette, go the lush apartment route in a jazzy Beverly Hills building. Seems sure that home is where the heart is, even in psychedelic Hollywood.

Aloha Young Rascals: Their promoter, James Doolittle, said the $70,000 group pulled in for only two performances make them his highest grossing act. That tops his other top pet, the Harry Belafonte.

Sonny and Cher Turn Square: No longer lured by the hippies, "Cause they put down drugs with a vehemence that sounds like their parents'."

Ticked Pickle: We promised the pickle kick would catch on—apple people turn green, turn sour, but the trend is catching on. Local movie houses now sell pickles on ice for a dime. Say teens love them. Buy two or three for a double feature.

Tweedy Teens: Teens will buy what the cotton industry promises them soon. Heavy cotton tweed coats that can be thrown into the washing machine and tumble dried.

Mrs. Vera Davis of Vera's Fashions is in Dallas this week attending the market there.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Miss Jule Karen Hogue became the bride of Michael Alva Robinson in a September 30 ceremony at Shiloh Terrace Baptist Church. Rev. Neal Jones officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hogue of 2611 Jonesboro, Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Robinson of 2818 Highway Drive are the parents of the bridegroom. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hogue, Sr. of Hope.

Traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Prestidge, organist and Don Blackley, soloist.

The bride wore a gown of white peau de soie designed with an empire waist line featuring a moulded bodice with a scooped neckline and wrist length sleeves. Her formal length A-line skirt was enhanced with a chapel length train attached at the back waist line. Her veil of illusion was caught to a white peau de soie rose. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. J. W. Steer of Fort Worth, Mrs. John Aaron Lewallen of Dallas and Mrs. Russell Duke of Commerce, Texas.

Best man was Roland Gerth and Groomsman were Richard Randall of Richardson, Stephen Sprung of Dallas, Robert Karlen of Dallas and Russell Duke of Commerce. Candlelighters were Terry Kobs, Houston, Texas and Michael May, Hope.

Following the wedding the reception was held in Fellowship Hall. Miss Sandra McFarland, Emmet, Arkansas, attended the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of Bryan Adams High School and attended the East Texas State University.

The groom, a 1964 graduate of Bryan Adams High School is attending East Texas State University.

After a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico the couple will make their home in Mesquite.

West Germany has an area of 95,931 square miles.

Life In Arkansas

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer

For many years, the last day of the 10th month of the year held mystery and superstition for little folks, but it seems today that this night for annual observance of Halloween has become more and more commercial.

Used to be this was the night the goblins prowled, the witches brewed their most exotic spells, and for little boys and girls it was the time to pull the most far-reaching pranks that could be thought up.

This Oct. 31, however, will probably be a duplicate of the last Halloween. That is, very few of the boys and girls will dress in their scary costumes and wander about the neighborhood scaring the daylight out of unsuspecting grownups.

Now days, it seems, most kids just try to find the largest bag possible and have their parents drive them from door to door to sack away as much candy and apples as possible.

It wasn't always this way, though, and possibly what change there has been is due to the general evolution of the times.

For instance, the growndwork for Halloween was laid many years ago. Long before the Christian era, autumn festivals belonged to the pagan rite. The great bonfires lighted by the ancient Druids were not only a homage to the sun god, about to go into semiretirement until the vernal equinox, but also a precaution against the evil spirits who were believed to roam aboard at that particular time.

Rome celebrated the fall with sacrifices of roasted nuts and apples to Pomona, a forerunner of the Nut Burning tradition, which became an established Halloween custom in Ireland about 1800.

Some 400 years ago, "beggar holidays" became traditional, enabling the poor to call on more privileged people in quest of largess. In England and Wales, "soul cakes" were baked and distributed to the visitors, which is believed to be the forerunner of today's trick-or-treat.

It seems that about the only original contribution to this age-old tradition made by the modern world is that of the jack-o-lantern, which probably came about when a whimsical country boy tried out his whittling on a pumpkin.

No matter what Halloween may have developed into over the years and no matter what might be thought of the custom today, it is still quite a sight to see the streets crawling during the early evening with three-foot tall boys and girls, dragging big bags, wearing pointed hoods and painted masks over their faces and heads with tiny eyes shining through.

Some of the costumes could be quite scary if the little rascals didn't have to speak and could hide their high-pitched voices.

Carrier Tears Up N.O. Dock

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Navy has a slightly dented aircraft carrier today and the port of New Orleans has wreckage on the docks.

The trouble started when the USS Lexington, arriving Wednesday for Navy Week celebrations, tried docking at the Bienville Street wharf.

Gun tugs on the ship, which put out far beyond the hull, smashed into the corrugated steel warehouses on the wharf.

While a crowd of greeters scampered for safety amid a shower of metal debris, the Lexington backed off.

Then all 42,000 tons of her came ramming into the wharf again.

The crowd, which eased hesitantly back onto the wharf each time the 900-foot-long ship maneuvered away for another try, beat still one more retreat.

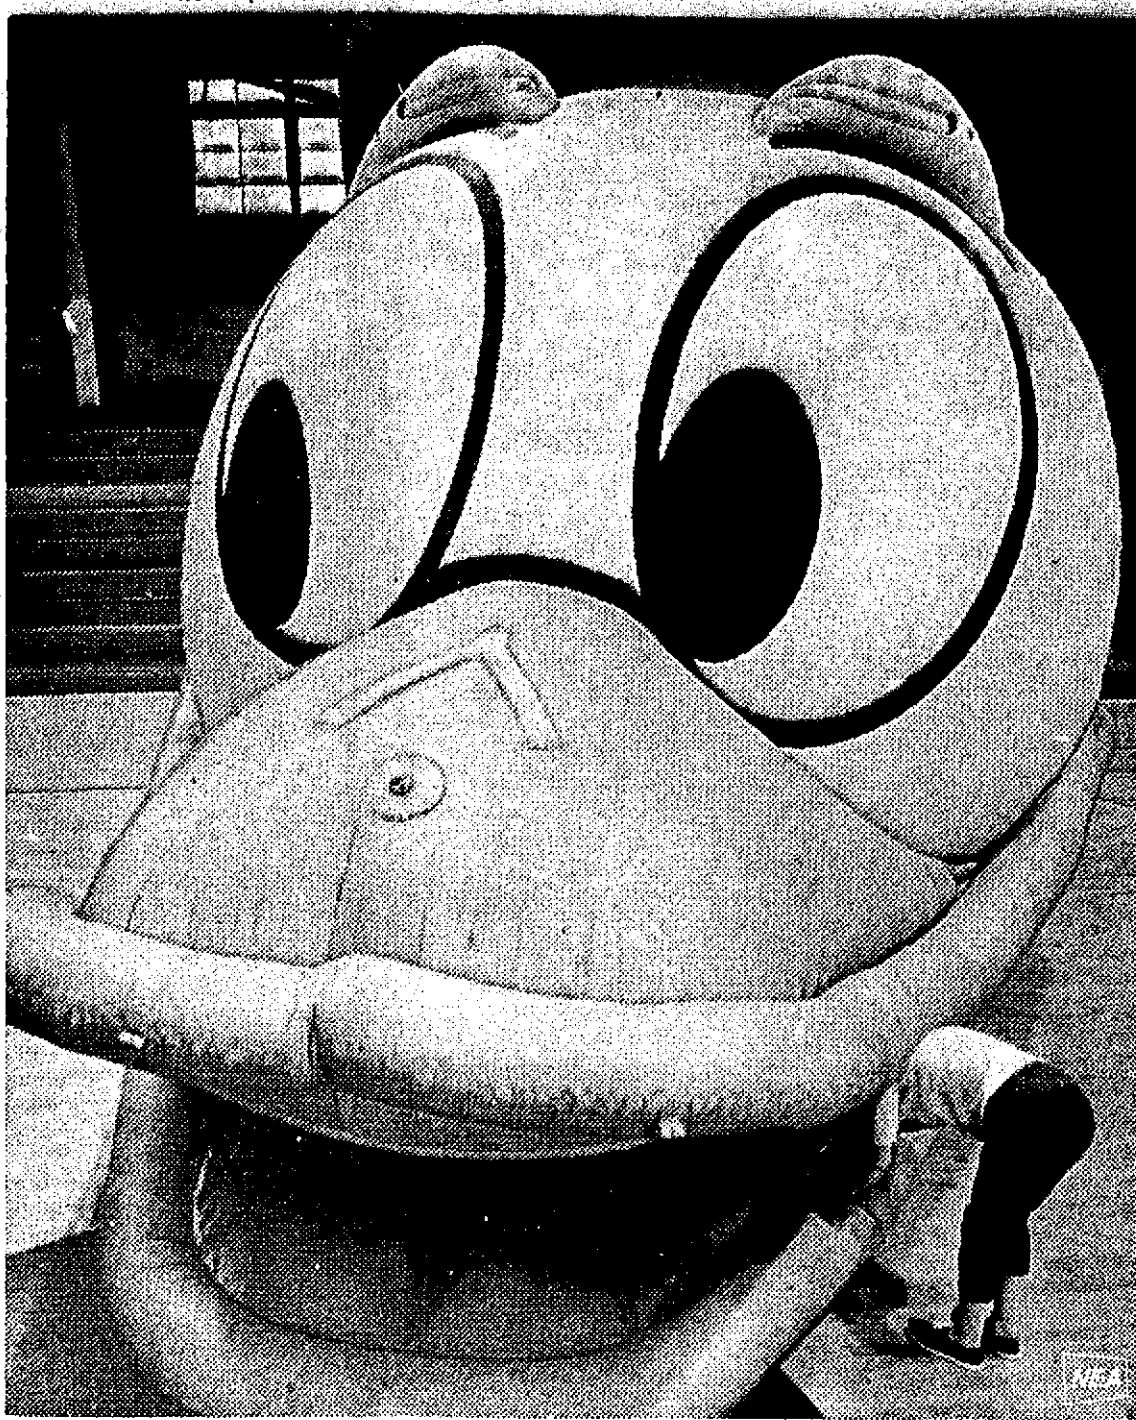

A third time the Lexington snatched into the wharf, and finally the captain sidled the ship into the middle of the Mississippi River until two Army docking barges—called "camels"—were positioned alongside the wharf to act as a buffer. The fourth mooring attempt went smoothly.

Only one camel had been fixed to the wharf when the Lexington tried docking previously, damaging nine huge sections of warehouse sheds in the process.

Capt. Edward W. Gendron, commanding officer of the Lexington, said there would be a naval investigation.

If the kids are carried away with indecent pencil and start to write on their white blouses simply soak the blouse in alcohol then launder as usual.

Joan Crosby's TV Notebook

By JOAN CROSBY

NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Andy Williams is both hesitant and excited.

He's hesitant to say that his first of three NBC-TV specials is great, because he hasn't seen it. But he's mighty excited, because he was, after all, there when they taped it.

The show is called Love, Andy and it's set for Nov. 6.

We worked very hard on the show," Andy said, talking by telephone from his Hollywood office. "It doesn't have the usual musical-variety format where you can always tell what will happen next and when the commercials are coming. We don't start the usual way, for example. There is 20 minutes of music uninterrupted by commercials. In this music, 10 different styles are represented. We have an enormous set, the biggest ever constructed at the NBC studios here. It's a labyrinth and, as the music changes, we move from one set to another. They are all keyed to color, too. For instance, for baroque music, it's all blue."

Henry Mancini, Erroll Garner and Claude Lelong. Andy's wife, are guests, but the show is built around Andy to the extent that he works with them all, there are no formal introductions, and much more music than usual.

When Andy had his weekly NBC-TV series, critics agreed that quality was maintained to a degree rare in television. But the best you can hope for in weekly TV," Andy said.

"is to entertain as much as possible. On a special, you are expected to extend yourself and do something different. Now it's possible to do something different and not be entertaining. We hope we are both different and entertaining."

Andy has a Columbia album due for release about the same time as the show. It's also called Love. Andy and the music is not the music from the show. "I hope that doesn't confuse people too much," he commented.

Claudio is also a top record seller, with three albums released by the A and M label. "Her first album sold over 300,000 copies," Andy said. "Of course, I'd slit my wrist if any of mine sold that many."

but it's great for a female singer. They just don't sell very well."

Sajid Khan, the handsome, 14-year-old who costars in NBC-TV's Maya, left his elephant in India and came to New York for a visit to the city's thundering herds.

"I am going out tonight on a date, but it is one MGM has arranged for me. I shall have to complain that they don't allow me to go out and find my own dates."

Dating is not going too smoothly for Sajid. In New York he is guarded by lioness MGM. In India, elephantine Maya keeps on eye on Sajid.

"Maya is a very good lady, but she gets jealous easily. Whenever girls are guests on our set, I act like a big shot. But Maya gets very upset."

Andy Williams, no stranger to television, is back again this year with three specials on NBC-TV.

Once I turned my back to her to talk to a girl and Maya was right behind me. I got a pat on my back from her, and I went down. Her pat on the back was a hard shot. Now when I talk to girls, I talk a mile away from her."

Orthodox Church Head Visits Pope

By DENNIS REDMONT
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI and Patriarch Athenagoras, spiritual leader of the world's Orthodox churches, embraced today at the door of St. Peter's Basilica in a milestone meeting on the road toward Christian unity.

The silver-bearded Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople (Istanbul) had arrived an hour earlier for the first visit by an Orthodox patriarch to a Roman Catholic Pope in more than 900 years, since the two churches separated in 1054 because the Orthodox refused to accept the primacy of the Pope.

As the bells of St. Peter's pealed a clamorous welcome, the two church leaders walked toward each other at the entrance to the largest basilica in Christendom with their hands clasped in prayer.

As they met, Pope Paul opened his arms to the 81-year-old patriarch and they embraced.

The visit of the bearded, 81-year-old patriarch to the Pope—their third meeting—was expected to accelerate contacts between their churches, Athenagoras came to Rome to repay the visit the Pope made to him in Istanbul last July. They met first in January, 1964, in Jerusalem, when Pope Paul made the first trip outside Italy by a modern pontiff.

"I bring you a message of peace and joy," Athenagoras told Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals, who with two other cardinals greeted the patriarch at the airport.

The Orthodox Church, with 150 million members, is closer in doctrine and spirit to the 500-million-member Roman Catholic Church than any other Christian faith. Because of this, the growing rapport between the Pope and the patriarch is expected to produce the most fruitful developments in the drive to reunite the world's Christian churches.

Although Pope Paul and Athenagoras were expected to give priority in their talks to advancing the reunion of their churches, the new flareup between Israel and Egypt appeared likely to command their attention also.

"It is unavoidable that this subject will be discussed, although no concrete suggestions

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

HOW TO BE UNPOPULAR WITH A TEENAGE DAUGHTER

Dear Helen: My father made a list of all my friends and then went to see them, to check if they were all right for me to go around with. He asked them a bunch of questions, and then double-checked with the neighbors. You can just guess how many friends I have left, between his third degree and veto. He thinks 90 percent of all teens are bad. He just eats up all the articles about the "turned on" generation, and says that proves it.

Every time I step out the door he figures I'll come back pregnant. The first time I had a date, he made the boy sign a paper saying he'd take full responsibility, etc. That was the last time I had a date. The word got around I've never done anything to make him distrust me, but he thinks it's because I haven't had a chance. My mother doesn't agree, but won't interfere. When I beg her to do something she says "Well, honey, he's your father. Does anyone have a solution?" "A" STUDENT, AGE 17

Dear "A": The solution is up to your mother. And she'd better start working on it if she wants to keep the love and respect of her daughter!

I've said many times and I'll say again: If one parent is dead wrong and the other knows, but does nothing about it, both are equally guilty and both deserve the lonely old age they'll surely have! H.

Dear Helen: I'm writing this to warn all couples not to ruin what they have. I was going steady with a wonderful boy for 15 months. Do you know how we ruined our love? By petting and constant making-out.

Soon I felt nothing but guilt and I would cry all the time. Finally we had a long talk and decided we should break up. It took a long time for me to stop hating myself. I still remember the fun we had before we got too serious, and then had to go and ruin it.

Kids: remember you're just teens and stop experimenting with your emotions or you'll be like me! REGRETFUL

Dear Helen: I'm glad you warned "Yearning" to get an allergy check before she gets her ears pierced. I didn't. It's been a year since my ears were pierced by a doctor, and they have never completely healed. Even if I don't wear earrings, they are inflamed, sore and peeling, like bad pimples. SORRY

Dear Sorry: I hope you're under a doctor's care. If not make an appointment! H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble, or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bittel in care of Hope Star. Copyright, 1967, Inc.

are expected," said the Rev. Pierre Duprey, secretary of the Vatican's Christian unity secretariat, citing the special interest of all Christians in Jerusalem.

Athenagoras came to Rome after a tour of Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria. He conferred with heads of the Orthodox churches in those countries seeking support for his unity efforts.

Unlike the Pope, Patriarch Athenagoras does not have absolute command in his Church. The various branches of orthodoxy are independent, and he has only the prestige of being first among the peers who head the other branches.

FAITH OPENS NEW HORIZONS WHEN YOU OPEN THE CHURCH DOOR

"This Way"

my boy," a proud father shouts. And a delighted lad takes his first steps to open arms of love and support. How marvelous if this relationship can last through all the years. Why not? They are and they will remain father and son. And a good father, like God, never fails his children even when he cannot understand them. These two make a team and likely will need each other for a long time. Then, frame the picture and give it a prominent place so each could think. "That's the way we began together." Trust and confidence and church-going leadership mark the older man. But eager effort and glad cooperation for the high and the good will glorify the son. Father and mother, when they start stepping, it is time for you to start helping. "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Prov. 3-6.

WIN AT BRIDGE

COMING SOON

Our old friend Charley Solomon of Philadelphia, president of the World Bridge Federation, has managed in his long career at the table to win just about every trophy there is. Charley is noted for his excellent bidding.

In a recent tournament, Charley was playing with a new partner when he picked up the South hand shown today. It would have puzzled him in any event, but he finally reached the spade slam by bidding in the box.

He opened with one spade only. They were playing weak two bids but that did not matter. An expert does not bother to open with a forcing bid when he knows that someone will surely be in the bidding with or against him.

Charley's three club rebid was a force. Like all modern experts, he plays that after a two-over-one response a new suit bid is a one round force.

This five spade bid that followed is the one we really like. He clearly said, "I am very interested in a slam and I don't care about what you have in the red suits. I can play five spades anyway. Can you go to six?"

This put some pressure on North. He got the message

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I'm having trouble keeping my new lower denture in place. I've tried many kinds of powders and pastes but none of them work. Can you recommend one that does?

ANSWER: You should not have to depend on adhesives to support dentures, specially new ones. There must be something wrong with your denture usually the "bite" is not in harmony, or the borders are not properly adapted to muscle attachments, or denture design does not make best use of atmospheric pressure or "suction" as it's commonly called. Your dentist can correct these faults.

Don't be a slave to denture adhesives. They're sticky, messy, dirt-collecting nuisances and can be irritating to some mouth tissues.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: My problem deals with the bony ridge of my lower jaw. The bone has shrunk so much that there's not enough ridge to support a denture. So far I've had three sets made but none of them work.

ANSWER: This is a problem and sometimes a severe one. However, with few exceptions, these cases can be successfully fitted with dentures by use of tried-and-proven conventional methods.

For the very few who can't be properly fitted, new surgical procedures have been helpful.

1. Implanting magnets in jawbone, under the gums and placing attracting magnets in the denture exactly opposite the implants.

2. Implanting in bone, under the gums, a network of special stainless steel from which upright posts or crowns protrude through the gums into the mouth. The denture is made with attachments that fit over these posts and is thus held firmly in place.

3. Variations of these techniques.

In early use of implants there was high failure rate, but techniques have been improved and, in limited, selected cases, they have proven to be successful.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Q—Is it true that you can tell the distance of a flash of lightning by counting the time it takes for you to hear the sound of thunder?
A—You can tell how far away a storm is by watching for the jagged streak of lightning. Then count off seconds until the thunder noise reaches you. Thunder travels one mile in five seconds. If it takes 15 seconds, you know the storm is three miles away.

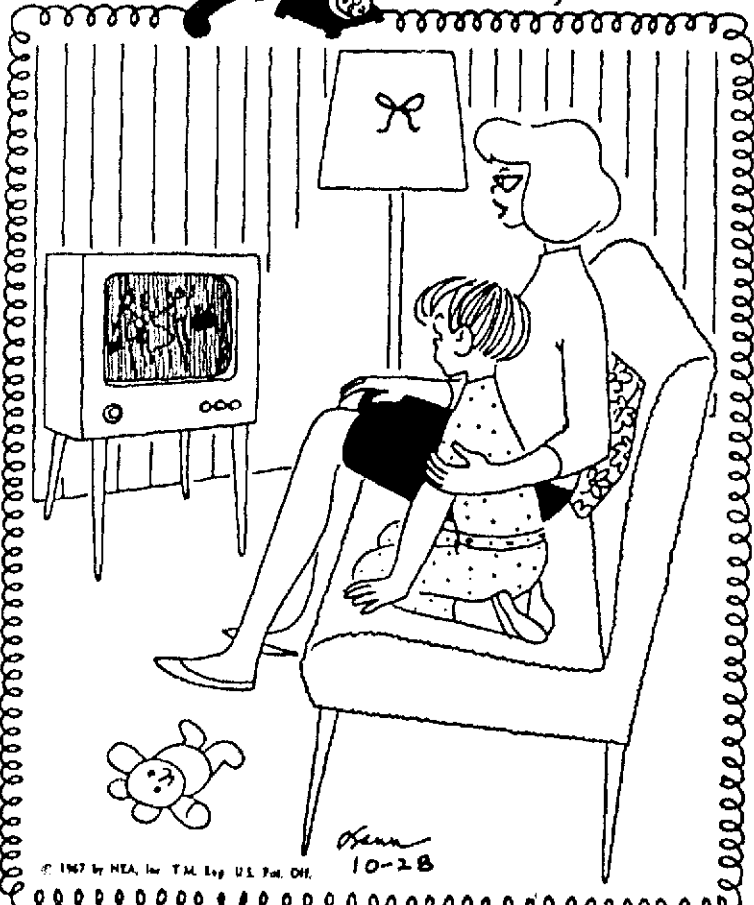

Q—Is a retroactive tax legal in the United States?
A—Yes.

Leopards In 7-6 Victory at Prescott

PRESCOTT — A visiting line-man blocked an extra-point kick to preserve a 7-6 victory for the DeQueen Leopards here Friday night in a District 7A game.

It was DeQueen's first conference win after three losses. Prescott's district record went to 2-2.

Prescott had almost completely stymied the Leopards offense until the visitors put together their winning 66-yard drive in the fourth quarter. At that, they needed a 15-yard, fourth-down penalty to get them to the five.

Randy Hall plunged across from the one and Aaron Athey kicked the conversion.

Prescott got its chance when DeQueen fumbled on its own seven. Danny Jones cracked in from the one with 20 seconds left but the conversion kick was knocked down.

Prescott led in total offense, 182 to 142 yards.

Monday night prime time extravaganza Both faulted for offensive shortcomings, come off 48-point scoring spree. But Packers' Starr is still not in peak physical shape and that Cardinal defense isn't same as porous Giant line. Issue really depends on whether young Jim Hart, Cardinal rookie quarterback, can maintain his point against vet Packer rush. He's been getting better every week.

Chargers risk only unbeaten record in league. Danger ahead because the Raiders are rough defensively and Dayle Lamonica's getting feel of running their attack. ## Bobcats and Camden Play To 0-0 Tie

By RALPH ROUNTON

Star Sports Writer

Undaunted by their conspicuous lack of size, the Camden Panthers played heads-up ball last night, battling to a 0-0 tie with the favored Hope Bobcats in Coleman Stadium at Camden.

Time and again the Bobcats lumbered into Panther territory, only to see the hopes of a touchdown dashed when the Hope passing attack never materialized into a threat to balance with the ground game.

For a half Camden was held to one first down, as the Cats dominated the statistics as well as the field position contest. Only once throughout the game until the end were the Panthers able to penetrate the midfield stripe, as the rugged Bobcat defense kept the opponents backed up to the wall.

The tie set the Bobcats' 4-AA mark at 1-5-1, and the Cats are 2-6-1 overall. Camden is also 1-5-1 in district play, but the Panthers are 1-7-1 for the season, with a lone 14-7 victory over Arkadelphia.

In the first half alone the Bobcats reached the Camden 22, 11, 38, and 21 yard lines on the deeper pushes, but the rushing attack was not able to come through when keyed for in the four-down range. Coach George Burke had taken every senior he had and stuck them on defense, comprising a platooning system which kept the Panthers with fresh men in the game at all times.

It was a good performance by the Bobcats as a team, but they did not seem as enthusiastic, and for the first time showing the wear of the tough 4-AA schedule. The defensive line and secondary worked well together as a team, and the offensive front worked better on pass blocking than at probably any time this year.

The only Camden threat came in the third quarter, when back Mike Reynolds faked a punt and scampered 39 yards to the Hope 43. From there the Panthers picked up one first down on the ground, but, like the Bobcats, bogged down from the lack of passing accuracy.

Leading the Bobcats' rushing totals was Jerry McWilliams, with 10 carries for 48 yards. Rodney Jones, who spelled McWilliams toward the end, ran 9 times for 33 yards. Halfback Jesse Dorris had the biggest night for Camden, with 45 yards on 26 trips. He was followed with Mike Reynolds, with 39 yards on one attempt. Next Friday evening the Bobcats return home to Hammons Stadium to play host to the Warren Lumberjacks.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

PASTOR'S APPRECIATION AT BETHEL

Appreciation services for Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Hughes will climax Sunday night Oct. 29th.

This service is being sponsored by the Sunday School and Junior choir.

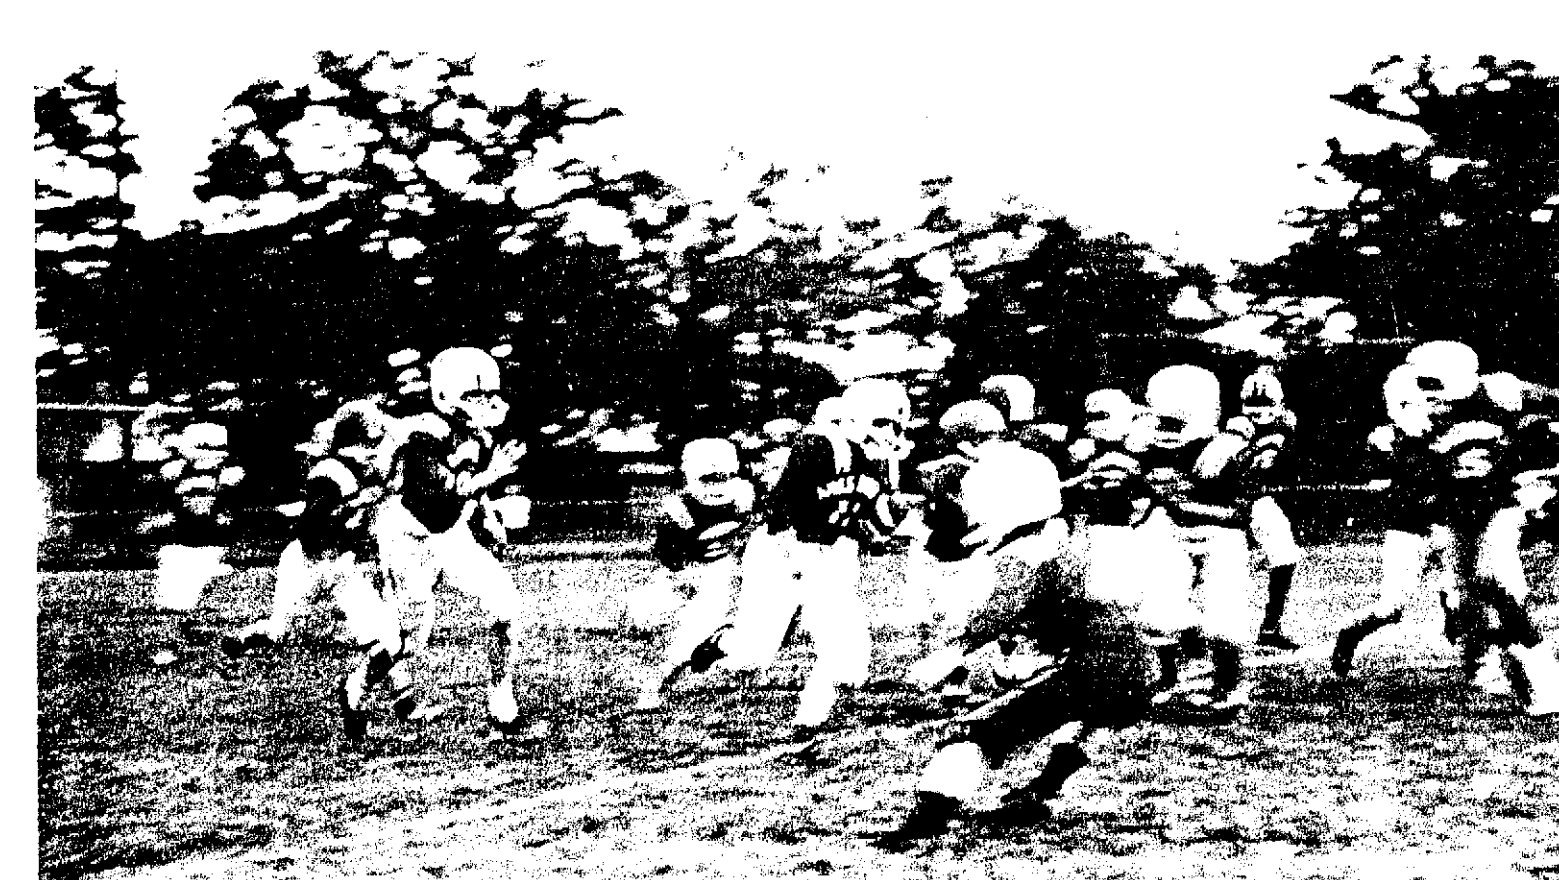

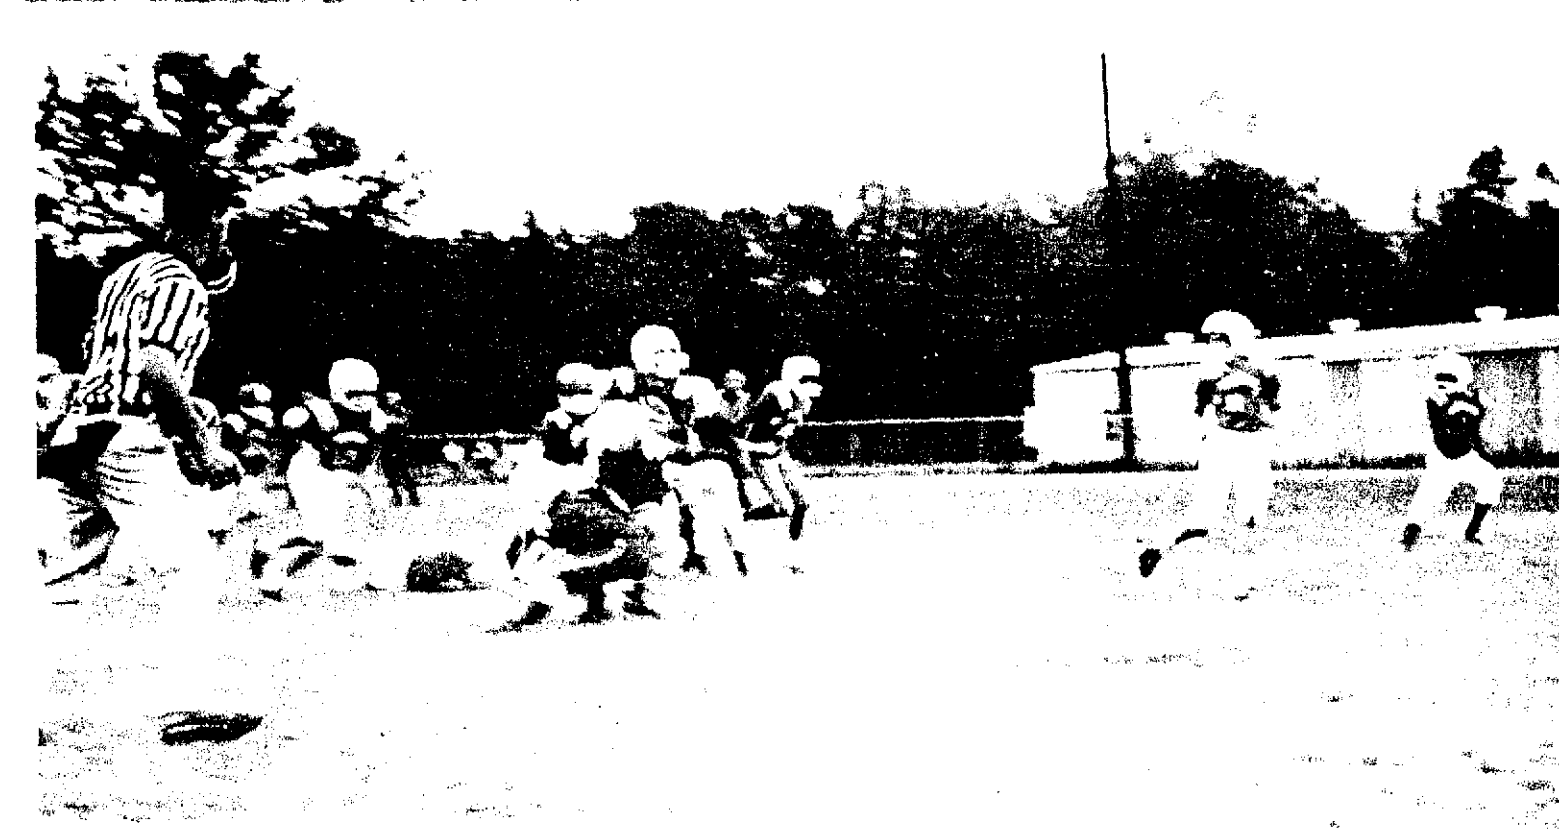

Guest churches are: Garrett Chapel Baptist, Mt. Pleasant C. M. E., and Pleasant Hill, Arkadelphia.

Rev. F. R. Williams will preach.

The Mysterious Gospel singers will sing at Mt. Pleasant C. M. E. church Saturday night (tonight) at 7:30.

It has been estimated that motor vehicle registrations in the United States will total 97,527,000 by the end of 1967.

Action in Little League Football

Hope Star Photos

In action Thursday afternoon at Fair Park, the Blues, sponsored by James Motor Co., defeated the Red Team, sponsored by Roy Anderson Insurance, by a score of 27 to 6.

The above photos show some of the action between the two teams. Original plans called for shots of all four teams, but an early darkness prevented this. Next week we will try to get pictures of the other teams, who have the first game, beginning at 5:30. This will be the last meeting of the teams.

The Gold team defeated the Whites 27 to 7 in the final game.

It's a game of chess all the way.

I emphasize running here because it accomplishes three things.

1. It gets your offensive linemen generating and working, they like to block on running plays because it's a more aggressive form.

2. It sustains drive for you like against Green Bay.

3. It dies in the defensive linemen keep them from roaming and chasing me.

Griese, Flipper 'Toss' for Attention

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In this make-believe world where streets are named for national heroes like Arthur Godfrey and Ed Sullivan, where the natives render tribal rites to the sun and where a performing porpoise handles a football as well as some local gridders—it is into this world that a tow-haired Hoosier has been thrust.

It was hardly like this back home in Indiana, where Bob Griese is from. Yet the rookie Miami Dolphin quarterback has caught the drift of the dream life. He is trying to make a winner out of a loser and thus divert the love of the residents from the dolphin Flipper to the Dolphin footballers.

An example of what he combats occurred recently. The Dolphins, last in the American Football League's Eastern Division, were behind at the half, 24-0, to the New York Jets, division leaders.

Griese had not played since spraining his right, or throwing, shoulder, three games before. He started the second half, taking over for Rick Norton, and the club began to move. They even scored a touchdown, even two touchdowns.

He passed 10 yards for the second TD, which brought a round of applause from the fans. The spectators, though, saved their true excitement for Flipper, who stays in a tank behind one goal post. The extra point kick dropped into the water and Flipper caught it in his jaws and tossed it out. A roar of joy went up from the stands.

Griese, like Flipper, has the intangible of motivating people.

"He can lift a team," said Miami coach George Wilson, "it's just something you're born with. And that's what a pro quarterback needs. He may not be as strong or accurate a thrower as some, but he's got a good football mind and that certain something extra."

Miami end Doug Moreau agrees. "You're in the huddle and he calls a play," said Moreau, "and he gives you the feeling it's going to work. John Stofa, injured Dolphin quarterback, has the same qualities. Rick (Norton) is a good quarterback, too. But people have been down on him so long, he doesn't impart the spark."

A quarterback has problems of leadership. Griese's are compounded because he is (1) a rookie and (2) with a losing club.

"I have confidence," said Griese, "and the other guys feel it when I come in the game."

"You've got to let them all know you are the boss. Even if you're a rookie. I went through all that rookie razzing in training camp, like getting up and singing my school song. Off the field they still needle me. But not on the field."

"If guys are talking in the huddle, I tell them to shut up. They respect that. When I call a play I use a strong tone of voice, as if to say, 'This play will work.' Not 'Let's pray this works.'"

"They don't resent a rookie talking this way. They've been in football long enough to understand the quarterback's authority. Luke Preston, Center, our tight end. This is his 12th pro season. He's like a father to me. We play golf a lot and talk football and I agree with him."

Then a situation comes up in a game. We have the ball at the right hash marks. I call a square out to Pres. We don't have much sideline. I say, 'O.K.' he says, 'I'll delay.'"

Uncle Sam says cigarette smoking is bad for you and you'd better stop. He says this through the Public Health Service, which repeatedly has reported the health dangers in the use of tobacco. He says it through a law which requires cigarette packs to carry a warning that smoking "may be hazardous." He says it through the Federal Communications Commission, which suggested that antismoking propaganda should get "equal time" or something like that with the paid commercial smoking propaganda. The Federal Trade Commission is pushing for a law to require an even scarier warning on cigarette packs.

But despite all this, Uncle Sam is spending around $40 million a year to subsidize, improve and increase tobacco production. This is done through the Agriculture Department, which acts as if it were wholly ignorant of all the fuss being made by the other agencies. So far, the Agriculture Department is getting the better of the contest. More people are smoking than ever before. The big losers, of course, are the taxpayers, who finance the cross-purposes campaigns of all these agencies—and pay fat taxes on the tobacco they buy to boot. —The Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel

Lynda Bird Around End

As if the domestic and Vietnamese situations weren't enough to keep us in a national sweat, a new crisis looms at the White House. Miss Lynda Bird Johnson has thoughtlessly scheduled her wedding for the afternoon of Saturday, December 9. But on that same afternoon NBC has planned to show the American League's Buffalo Bills playing the Boston Patriots, ABC has Florida vs. Miami University, and CBS has the Green Bay Packers against the Los Angeles Rams.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, the first lady's press secretary, has suggested that a delayed telecast of the wedding would avoid the conflict. But this, it seems to us, would rob the event of much of its emotion and all of its suspense.

No one, to our knowledge, has yet suggested the obvious solution—to schedule the wedding so that it coincides with half time in at least one of the games. The mercifully brief Episcopal ceremony should fit nicely into this span, and if for some reason it is postponed—an international crisis, perhaps, or some last-minute thoughts by the groom—the wedding and the affected game could be reported on an alternating basis. Coverage might go like this:

"Good afternoon, sportsfans, this is Curt Dowdy in Los Angeles — and Arlene Fatuous at the White House bringing you the wedding of Lynda Bird Johnson and — the Los Angeles Rams. It's a beautiful day here in the Coliseum. The goal posts have been decorated with — pink peonies and sole cascading down from a shoulder-length — faceguard. The linemen for the second half will see Bart Starr remaining at quarterback, and at right tackle will be — the Iranian ambassador, whose wedding gift to the bride was reported to be a fabulous — fake to the right end, and now Starr tears back and throws — the most beautiful bouquet we've ever seen. The lovely arrangement of white roses and peonies is — intercepted by the defensive half-back, who tears down the right side of the — aisle — breaks one tackle, keeps going, and is finally brought down by — the waiting limousine, amid a shower of rice." — Winston-Salem (N.C.) Journal

Daylight Time ends Sunday, Oct. 29—turn clocks BACK one hour.

Miss Mills Named in Divorce

LONDON (AP)—Hayley Mills, 21-year-old British actress, is named in a divorce petition brought by Enid Boulting against her husband, film director Roy Boulting.

Hayley, the daughter of actor John Mills, started in films at the age of 12 in "Tiger Bay" and made her name playing the roles of shy young English girls. Earlier this year she worked with Boulting when she starred in "The Family Way."

Other survivors include his wife and a daughter.

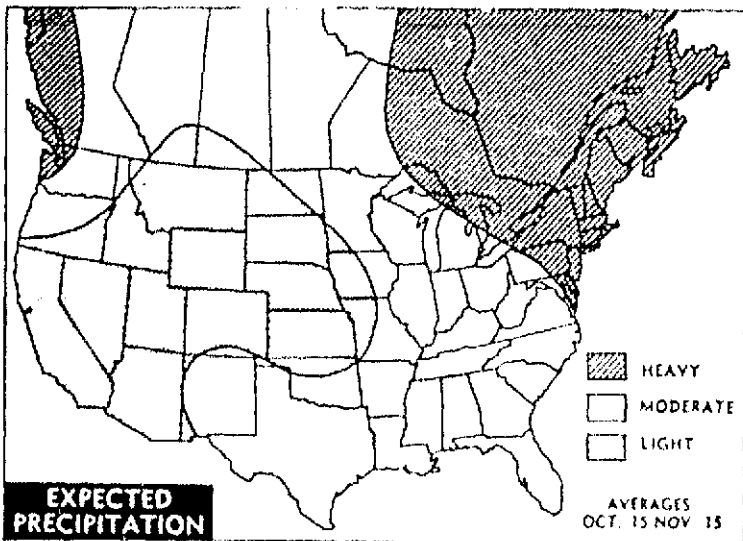

PHOTOGRAPHING FOREST FIRES is the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's latest means of fighting the costly fires while they are still small. A plane flies over a forest area scanning an area below 120 degrees wide, as shown by the dotted lines. Combinations of heat sensing and electro-optical techniques flash a red light when a hot target is sensed and record its size. Fighting forest fires in their infant stages could cut down on the millions of dollars in annual loss.

Orbiting October

Maps show Weather Bureau's estimated forecasts of average temperature, precipitation through Nov. 15.

From east to west, temperature belts are expected to range from below seasonal normal to much above.

Northeast and Middle Atlantic states are in for a precipitation bonus; the Plains and far West will be drier.

Keep It In Mind Tighter Credit Is Expected

Daylight Time ends Sunday, Oct. 29—turn clocks BACK one hour.

Miss Mills Named in Divorce

LONDON (AP)—Hayley Mills, 21-year-old British actress, is named in a divorce petition brought by Enid Boulting against her husband, film director Roy Boulting.

Hayley, the daughter of actor John Mills, started in films at the age of 12 in "Tiger Bay" and made her name playing the roles of shy young English girls. Earlier this year she worked with Boulting when she starred in "The Family Way."

Other survivors include his wife and a daughter.

Arkansan Is Acquitted of Kidnap

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Morriston, Ark., man was found innocent by a Knox County Criminal Court Jury Thursday night of charges he helped kidnap and rob a Knoxville resident at gunpoint last June 11.

Freed of the charges was Laurence Broussard, 34. The jury deliberated three hours before returning the verdict. Broussard and three others were charged with robbing 42-year-old Eugene Scott of $36 and forcing him to go with them to La Follette, about 30 miles northwest of here, in Scott's car.

Broussard's co-defendants, all from Morriston, pleaded guilty as the trial opened Wednesday and were sentenced to state prison terms ranging from five to 25 years.

Judge Joe Duncan sentenced both Monroe Ridling, 21, and Paul R. Sass, 32, to 20 years on an armed robbery charge and to two-to-five years on a kidnapping count. The terms will run consecutively.

Sentenced to five years in prison on a kidnapping charge was Joe Ann Lee Prince, 22. Taking the stand in his own defense Thursday, Broussard told the jury he was "concerned with the safety of Scott" as the party drove from Knoxville to La Follette.

In closing arguments to the jury, Bill Newkirk, assistant district attorney general, had recommended that Broussard be sentenced to 39 years in the state penitentiary.

State Pay Is Being Aided

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Robert M. Millwee, executive director of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, said Thursday his $16,500-a-year salary was being supplemented by an AIDC foundation fund and said several other AIDC personnel salaries might be supplemented by the fund in January.

The fund, however, has been reported almost depleted in recent months because of a lack of contributions.

Millwee said the private funds brought his salary to about $24,500. He said that if the General Assembly didn't raise the salaries of other AIDC employees in the special session planned in February, their salaries would be supplemented from the fund, also.

Anti-War March Is Defended

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Thursday the massive antiwar demonstration at the Pentagon last week was a constitutional exercise of free speech, but it was a different matter when some demonstrators clashed physically with police and troops.

Fulbright said dissent was not detrimental to the country but that it is the "malfunction" of the government that is harmful.

Rival Plans Cause Split In Council

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council is split over rival plans for sending a U.N. representative to the Middle East to try to open the way to a lasting Arab-Israeli peace settlement. Informed sources said a drafting team of six nonpermanent council members had agreed in principle on a formula, but Canada and Denmark came in Friday night with a rival plan.

The six-nation draft outlined several basic principles for a settlement, including that Israel should withdraw from those parts of Egypt, Jordan and Syria it occupied in the June war and that the Arab states should abandon their 19-year-old state of belligerency toward Israel.

India, Argentina, Brazil, Ethiopia, Mali and Nigeria drafted that proposal. When they showed it to the council's other four elected members—Bulgaria, Canada, Denmark and Japan—Danish Foreign Minister Hans Tabor introduced the rival Canadian-Danish plan. Diplomatic sources said that plan only indicated that Israel should withdraw from the captured territory, stating that countries should not keep troops on other countries' territories against their will.

The council president for October, Japanese Ambassador Senjin Tsuruoka, said the 10 delegates would meet again Monday morning to discuss the two proposals.

Efforts to obtain a permanent Arab-Israeli settlement have been spurred by Egypt's sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath last Saturday and the Israeli shelling of Port Suez Tuesday which set fire to Egypt's two major oil refineries.

The council on Wednesday adopted a stopgap resolution condemning all violations of the cease-fire without fixing the blame for either the sinking of the destroyer or the shelling of Port Suez.

The Israelis strongly oppose a hard and fast mandate which might work against Israel's campaign for direct negotiations with the Arab governments.

Negro Judge Takes the Liberal Side

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Thurgood Marshall's judicial philosophy came sharply into focus in his first month as a Supreme Court justice.

Although the term is young and the evidence necessarily limited, an analysis of his performance to date indicates a liberal stance—but a rather cautious one.

On the liberal side of the ledger, the former advocate for Negroes' civil rights joined in reversing the murder convictions of two Alabama Negroes. In one case, the court found evidence of exclusion of Negroes from juries. In the other it found the Negro confessed after the police chief threatened to kill him.

To a man, Marshall's eight colleagues voted to reverse those convictions. But in a less noticed action, the court's first Negro justice stood with liberals Abe Fortas and William O. Douglas apart from the other members of the court in a fair trial decision.

As U.S. Solicitor General, Marshall had appealed publicly to the nation's prosecutors to make sure defendants get a fair trial. Last Monday he took a significant stand in this area.

At the murder trial of a California man the prosecution introduced testimony that the defendant had offered to make a deal if he could be spared from the gas chamber.

Convicted and under life sentence, he appealed to the Supreme Court and was turned down. Dissenting, Marshall and Douglas joined Fortas in criticizing the majority for not taking the case and deciding if admission of such statements at trial should be prohibited.

Methodist Youth to Make Campaign for UN Children's Fund

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Tomorrow afternoon, October 29, members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, along with their friends from other churches, will Trick or Treat for UNICEF, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Linda O'Neal and Janey Seamans are the chairmen for this drive, and Mrs. Joe Watkins is supervising the local program. The youth will begin ringing doorbells at 2 p.m. and are asked to return to the Methodist Church no later than 5 p.m. The young people of Hope work hard at this and last year collected almost $200.

Every penny, nickel, and dime they receive may spell the difference between hope and despair, between life and death for a small boy or girl in a far-away land. That is because the exclusive job of the United Nations Children's Fund is to aid the suffering and dying children of the world.

We know there is war in the world today. In fact, as long as mankind has been around, people have been killing for the sake of one cause or another: nationalism, ideology, conquest, defense, religion. But, hard as it is to realize, death can have an even more revolting and saddening aspect in peace than in war.

Each day of each week of every month of the year at least 30,000 children die of "natural" causes—hunger, exposure, poverty, disease. Particularly in the underdeveloped areas of the world, the meaningless death of babies, children, and youth is a commonplace event.

Now, the time of year that used to be associated with witches and pumpkins, janciful costumes and masks,—not to mention juvenile pranks and acts of outright vandalism,—has be-

Teddy R's Statue to Be Unveiled

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Out on a Potomac River island, among the maples and the elms where the raccoons and the chipmunks play, a statue of Teddy Roosevelt has stood for many a moon.

For almost a year and a half it's stood there in a wooden crate with one burlapped flit rising out the top in rhetorical admonition.

Today they're uncrating, unveiling and dedicating it. Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the peppy and often peppy 83-year-old daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, was scheduled to pull the string to unveil the 17-foot-high bronze statue of her father.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall was to preside, and other members of the Roosevelt family were coming.

The statue is part of a $1.4 million memorial on Theodore Roosevelt Island, an 88-acre wilderness preserve in the Potomac River at Washington, just upstream from the Lincoln Memorial.

Congress authorized Teddy's memorial in 1960, and the inevitable controversy arose over how it should look. Mrs. Longworth called one proposed sculptural design "a global jungle gym."

The statue, executed by the late Paul Manship, has been standing crated in its place since May 6, 1966, overlooking an oval terrace. A step down is another surrounding terrace encircled by a moat crossed by footbridges.

From the outer terrace rise four granite slabs, each 21 feet high, inscribed with tenets of Roosevelt's philosophy of citizenship.

The island was bought from private owners in 1931, 12 years after TR's death, by the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Association to give to the American people. It can be reached by ferry from Washington and by a footbridge from the Virginia shore.

come something very different. Traditional Halloween fun now means the world's greatest effort by children to help children.

Trick or Treating for UNICEF is much more rewarding than smearing windows. Through UNICEF your coins can go far; a nickel gives the penicillin to cure two children of yaws (a disease which cripples the bones); a dime provides the antibiotics to save a young trachoma victim from blindness; a quarter supplies the vaccine to protect 20 children from tuberculosis.

Now in its 17th year, the UNICEF Halloween program involves some 3.5 million American young people in over 13,000 communities. They can be identified by orange cartons in the shape of half-pint milk containers with the UNICEF symbol of a mother and child. Only they are authorized to receive donations for the Children's Fund.

So effective is the work done by the UNICEF Fund that two years ago the organization was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. You can have a part in this world-wide aid for youth when UNICEF Trick or Treaters call on you tomorrow. But tomorrow is Sunday and you say you won't be home? That's all right. Just mail your contributions to: UNICEF, P. O. Box 400, Hope, Ark. 71801. And thank you.

Overseas Mail Fraud Is Nipped

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—"The search for wealth and the search for oil go hand in hand," the neatly mimeographed letter began.

It explained about oil discoveries in Australia and how investors might make a handsome profit—or lose everything. It suggested a "small investment" of $200 or perhaps $500.

Enclosed were colored maps of Australia, an order blank and a return envelope addressed to a post office box in Freeport, Bahamas Islands.

At the request of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Post Office Department has now labeled the effort fraudulent. The department issued a foreign postal fraud order Thursday.

The SEC said the company, Simpson-McArthur Ltd., is trying to sell securities in the United States without registering them with the government as required by law. Officials called the literature issued by the firm typical of the illegal appeals for money by some operators in the Bahamas, Panama and Canada.

The fraud order means any mail addressed to Simpson-McArthur at the Freeport post office box will be stamped fraudulent and returned to the sender.

This type order does not give the department authority to intercept mail entering the country.

The SEC began its investigation several weeks ago when it received the company's literature from a private citizen and at first officials considered slapping the company's name on the foreign blacklist.

But because of the technical and unusual nature of this case—the company was selling undivided overriding royalties in an Australian oil concession held by another company—SEC officials decided against blacklisting.

The blacklist—which now numbers 30 companies including four from the Bahamas—consists of firms which the SEC believes have offered securities, mainly stocks, for sale in the United States without registering them.

SEC officials said their investigation and the postal fraud order should be enough to end the new operation.

Simpson-McArthur Ltd.—SEC investigators said they never heard of the company and were unable to contact officials—listed London and Sydney, Australia, as other addresses.

U.S. And Red Troops Clash Near DaNang

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. troops killed 131 Red soldiers in a series of clashes Friday south of Da Nang, the U.S. Command announced, while another day of intense raids on the Hanoi-Haiphong area raised the week's plane toll so far in North Vietnam to 14 U.S. jets shot down and 27 MIGs destroyed or damaged.

Reported American casualties in the ground fighting near Tam Ky and Hoi An, two provincial capitals south of Da Nang, totaled 19 dead and 76 wounded.

Communist shelling of Con Thien and other forward U.S. Marine outposts just below the demilitarized zone also increased, from a recent daily average of 100 or less rounds to an estimated 170 Friday. Seven Marines were killed and 41 wounded, U.S. headquarters said.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division battled the Reds in a series of scattered actions near Hoi An and reported 78 of the enemy killed. In the largest fight, eight miles south of the provincial capital, the U.S. Command said 35 Communists and 10 Americans were killed and 33 Americans wounded.

To the south on the coastal plains near Tam Ky, troops of the American Division fought a series of clashes with North Vietnamese units and reported 53 of the enemy and nine Americans killed and 42 Americans wounded.

In the largest clash five companies of U.S. troops—about 900 men—were pitted against a force of about the same size from the North Vietnamese 2nd Division.

U.S. headquarters said American pilots shot down four MIGs Thursday and one Friday, bringing to 27 the number of Soviet-made jet fighters reported destroyed or damaged in aerial combat or on the ground this week.

Wiley, Now Dead, Had a Vision

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alexander Wiley, who died Thursday, was not one of the most brilliant minds in the Senate where he served 24 years before being beaten in his try for a fifth term in 1962.

But he did develop a vision of the world and the future which he had to arrive at the hard way. And in the process more than a decade ago he was making statements which sound like President Johnson today.

He was an isolationist when he came to the Senate as a Wisconsin Republican in 1939. He was 45 then and found policy of company in a Senate which was slowly and grudgingly emerging from a belief America could stand alone.

There was another Midwestern Republican isolationist there when Wiley arrived—Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan—who, like Wiley, eventually became an internationalist after World War II.

Wiley never achieved the public stature or influence of Vandenberg, but both men in the early postwar years helped eliminate some of the political partisanship which had plagued American foreign policy.

For both this was their greatest contribution to American history although today's generation has probably only a dim knowledge or none at all of either man.

Two shining examples of Wiley's early isolationism were his opposition to the draft in 1940 and to lend-lease in 1941. In 1940 the American Army was hardly more than a Cooey's army at a time when Hitler dominated most of Europe.

Lend-lease was this country's long-delayed, last-minute effort to help Hitler's surviving enemies with supplies and weapons.

But by the time the war ended Wiley and Vandenberg had done a complete turn-around in foreign affairs.
